The Tomokan

1926-1927
1927-1928

Published by the Senior Class of
Rollins College

"Where Calderon at anchor lay in the bay of the Holy Ghost."

Foreword

The Tomokan has been fortunate in securing for its art motif Rose Mills Powers' poem, "The Ride of the Thirty Cavaliers."

The ballad was written on the Rollins campus in what is now Pinehurst and first published in the Tampa Daily Times in 1914, at the outbreak of the World War. It is a work of power and beauty, possessing a significant historical value. Already it has become a distinct contribution to Florida literature.

The indomitable spirit of the poem is in keeping with the spirit of the New Rollins. For this reason "The Ride of the Thirty Cavaliers" has been chosen as the motif for the 1927-28 Tomokan.

"They must backward hie through smoke and blood where the corpses line the trail."

Dedication

This book is dedicated to the Trustees of Rollins College, those men whose purpose, self-sacrifice, and unfaltering adherence to the highest ideals of American education have made possible, at last, the birth of the New Rollins.

"Hoof to hoof and lance to lance, rode the Thirty Cavaliers."

President Holt Commends Students

I shall never forget my first interview with Lloyd-George, Prime Minister of Great Britain. It was just before the Committee of the Versailles Conference took up the task of framing the covenant of the League of Nations. All the thousand journalists in Paris were on tiptoe to discover clues that would lead to the discovery of what the Nations were prepared to do.

I asked Mr. Lloyd-George point blank what kind of a constitution he would like to see established for the League of Nations. Quick as a flash he replied: "Anything provided it does not resemble the United States Constitution. The United States Constitution is the most inflexible document ever written. It has existed over a century and it is virtually impossible to change it. The Supreme Council during the War has no rules and works perfectly."

I wonder if the student body realizes how few rules have been promulgated on this campus. I doubt if there is another college in the country that has so few "thou shalts" and "thou shalt nots."

So far this year—(I here knock wood!)—there has not been a single case for student discipline that has come before our Faculty-Student Committee. Indeed, I am told the Committee has met only once and that for the purpose of organization.

I speak sincerely when I say I do not see how we could have a finer body of students in Rollins this year or a better and saner college spirit. "Rollins is rolling along!"

HAMILTON HOLT.

The Dawn of an Era

Personality is the unit of humanity.

They are varied and of many colors, personalities. Some are dark in that they shed no enlightenment upon people and conditions about them; they are sometimes called negative. Others—rich in warmth of understanding, radiating a wealth of humaneness and high ideal—are personalities which might be termed positive. It is this latter kind of personality that President Holt sums up in that oft-quoted phrase: “Golden Personality.”

President Holt is attempting to find a place for personality in the scheme of American education.

He has called to Rollins one of the most brilliant assemblages of instructors ever gathered at one institution. Like a collector of gems searching for the precious stones, he has gone out after teachers. From all walks of life he has brought them, not limiting himself to choice from the ranks of those who have had years of teaching experience, but probing the world of practical activity for teachers who teach, not because some institution has given them certificates stating that they can teach, but because God placed in them the divine qualities of great teachers.

“Great teachers are born and not made,” says President Holt.

Mixing the splendid ideals of the Rollins of the past with the ultra from the field of professors, President Holt is administering the potion to Rollins students from a bottle labeled: “Contact Between Student and Professor.” The dose is offered once every two hours. If the student doesn’t like it, he doesn’t have to take it. Apparently, because he doesn’t have to take it, he likes it. There you have it—the meat of the Two-Hour Conference Plan of Study now operating successfully at Rollins.

Rollins is the Mother of a new era in American education.

Author, woman, understander of the human heart—who, for her tireless and unselfish efforts in furthering the literary interests of Rollins College, her encouragement of young writers through gentle, wise and far-seeing guidance, her infinite patience, and her ability to turn the thinking of a young person within so that the best and noblest forms of ambition may become conscious concepts in connection with a practical and moving world,—in short, for the supreme qualities of her which go to make her a Great Teacher we take this opportunity to express our gratitude and our appreciation.

Coaching Staff

Athletics at Rollins, with the coming of President Holt, have undergone a metamorphosis in all branches except football. This department has suffered so seriously from lack of material that even Coach Hill, whose record as a coach and as an athlete has been brilliant, could not chalk up more than two victories during the 1928 season.

Football, basket-ball, baseball, swimming, track, canoeing, archery, hockey, boxing, tennis, crew, and gym work have places in the athletic program. Coach Chas. Chase, former coxswain of the Yale crew, was secured by President Holt to coach crew candidates.

"Big Ben" Pound, cited in fistic circles as seventh ranking heavyweight in the United States, directs boxing.

Lucille Jackson has directed Girls' Athletic. Under her guidance, and spurred on by the contagious enthusiasm of her personality, the Woman's Athletic Association was organized.

Fleetwood Peeples is an old timer at the aquatic activity, having been at Rollins for a number of years.

Head coaches and assistants at Rollins this year have numbered seven—five more than in 1927. Athletics are not being neglected in the new Two-Hour program.

Football Coaches

Sam H. Hill, director of athletics and head football coach at Rollins during the year 1927-28, is a product of Zuppke's famous school of coaching at the University of Illinois wherein Red Grange rose to prominence.

Webber Haines, line coach, was formerly a student at Rollins. He transferred to Brown University, and became one of that aggregation of Iron Men for which Brown was noted during the past two seasons. He assisted Coach Hill with the line.

Coach Bailey, a football mentor of experience, came to Rollins from Mississippi College. He specialized in developing end men.

CAPTAIN CHARLES "ZIP" ZEHLER, Halfback

With the graduation of Zehler this year, Rollins lost one of her greatest football players. Finished in form, a kicker, passer and runner—an able football player, but, most of all, a man—Zehler led the Tars for two years through the blackest period in Rollins football annals. He is a four-year letter man.

FRANK S. "ABIE" ABBOTT, Guard

Three years ago Abbott began college football at the halfback position. His ability in the line, however, lost him the attendant glories of a back man. A serious operation kept him out of the game during his third year. In this his fourth year, he came back with all the old time fight. He is a three-year letter man.

WELCH "DEACON" FISHER, Halfback

Fast, brilliant and hard hitting, Fisher broke through last year's freshman line, hit the varsity backfield this year, and has been crowning himself with glory ever since. He has two more years.

CHESTER "CHET" IHRIG, Quarterback

We seldom see one-hundred-and-eighty-pound quarterbacks. Such was Ihrig. Strong of body and alert of mind, he made an excellent field general. He played all of every game, except the last one of the season, when he sustained a recurrence of an old rib injury. He has two more years.

PAUL "SPEEDY" HILLIARD, Halfback

Another veteran passed with the graduation of Hilliard. A kicker, passer and runner, he made a dependable and valuable back. The singing halfback earned his first letter his freshman year. He is a four-year letter man.

EWING "UNK" STARNES, Guard

Strength and diminutiveness are not always incompatible. With but one hundred and forty pounds of flesh and bone, Starnes rode roughshod over many a man bigger than himself. Starnes was a mainstay in the center of the line throughout the season. He has two more years.

GERARD "JERRY" MILLER, Tackle

Miller was a hard-working and conscientious lineman who developed noticeably during the year. Although a substitute at the beginning of the year, he advanced to a starting position in the last two games. He will answer the call for men again next season, and has an excellent chance for a main berth.

CLAUDE "SOFIE" COUCH, Guard

The "220-pound Atlas" has played his fourth and last year for the Tars. Playing his last two years with braced elbows weakened from many seasons on the gridiron, Couch still managed to retain his regular berth on the first eleven. He graduates this year. Couch is a four-year letter man.

RALPH MARLOWE, End

Three years did he labor, and at the end of the fourth year he was rewarded: he won his "R." A fighter and an end of no mean ability, Marlowe will be remembered as one of those who survived the four-year famine of football material. He graduated this year.

WILLIAM "LEFTY" MOORE, Halfback

Safety man deluxe, one of the hardest hitting backs on the team despite his diminutiveness, Moore earned a place on the varsity this year through sheer merit. He is one of the most promising bets for next year's varsity. He has two more years.

DILWORTH "MAC" MCCOY, Fullback

McCoy graduated from last year's freshman ranks to make a name for himself as a hard-plunging fullback. Punting was his specialty. Many times during the season his long kicks drove back the opponents when the Rollins goal was in danger of being crossed. He did not return to school the second term. His loss will be keenly felt next year.

ROBERT "BOB" CROSS, End

Cross was a versatile athlete. He conducted pre-season training, acted as trainer during the season, and held down a berth at an end position. Cross has one more year.

CLOYDE RUSSELL, End

The ability to diagnose and break up plays sent at his end made Russell invaluable to the team during the past season. His defensive work was especially outstanding in the Georgia A. & M. and Spring Hill games. In the last game of the season his knee was badly injured, and he had to be carried from the field. He has two more years.

ROBERT "BEERHUNZ" BURHANS, Tackle

No more willing candidate ever donned a Tar uniform than Burhans. He was especially strong in the defensive department of the game, and on several occasions averted disaster at critical moments. He has a bright future and two more years to make it shine.

ROWAN PICKARD, Center

A center as line general must be a clear thinker and a hard, consistent player. Pickard earned the confidence and respect of his teammates by possessing these qualities. Pick No. 1 will be a nucleus of a line about which a team may be built next year. He has two more years.

ROBERT "BOB" BONEY, Tackle

Boney, playing at tackle, end and defensive fullback, playing his own position and helping several others play theirs, became, toward the end of the season, the nucleus of the Rollins defensive game. He showed that he was at least three things: a man, a football player and a fighter to the last white line. Boney has two more years.

ALBERT "BUS" WARNER, Center

Alternating between center and guard, Warner was one of Coach Hill's most dependable linemen. He did not possess qualities of brilliancy or even of flashiness; but, in addition to being able to do what he should do, he was one of those wonders about whom coaches dream: he could do what he was told.

GEORGE PICKARD, Guard

Pickard in his first year of varsity football was a consistent player throughout the season. He was an exponent of team play, sought no individual honors, yet was an outstanding lineman. His return next year assures the squad of a dependable man. He has two more years.

DANA "KING" KINGSBURY, Tackle

It doesn't happen often that a man makes the varsity the first year in his life that he plays football. Kingsbury performed the feat. He did not return the second term, however; whether he will be back next year is problematical. He has a bright future, should he continue in the glorious old game.

ELBERT "RED" WINDERWEEDLE, Tackle

Winderweedle, big and fast, has enjoyed a meteoric career in football. This year he dislocated a shoulder in the Southern game. Returning too soon, he dislocated it a second time, and was disabled for practically the remainder of the season. "Red" is a four-year letter man and his graduation will lose the Tars one of their most powerful linemen.

ERNEST "PINKY" ZOLLER, End

Zoller played end and tackle. Injuries kept him off the field nearly all season, however, so he did not have the opportunity to show his real ability. Zoller will be back next year.

Varsity Squad

The 1928 Season

Despite the scores, the discouraging setbacks due to injuries, and a woeful lack of material, the 1928 football season at Rollins has not been a failure.

There are critics; critics will criticize; despite their words, however, there is no denying that a new spirit has been born at Rollins. Against disheartening odds the team drove on; against discouraging defeats the student body supported their team. Courage and loyalty were abroad, and that is why the season was not a failure.

But courage and loyalty—they are great qualities, but poor excuses for teams that lose consistently. It is sincerely hoped that Rollins will not have to make excuses in the future, but that the present growth of the college will bring a new and plentiful supply of football candidates.

Our first game with Georgia A. & M., we won by a score of 14 to 7.

Other games followed in rapid succession with institutions much larger than Rollins. Early in the season Captain Zehler was disabled with a dislocated shoulder that kept him off the field practically the remainder of the season. Many of the old players: Fisher, Hilliard, Starnes, Burhans, Pickard, Couch, Marlowe, Russell, R. Pickard played through the remainder of the season handicapped by various injuries.

On November 12 the Tars met the fast Piedmont team. It was the first home game, and the boys demonstrated their come-back powers by annexing a hard-fought game 19-18.

Coaches Sam Hill, Mr. Bailey and Mr. Haines are especially to be commended for the manner in which they maintained team spirit, despite the discouraging season, right up to the last minute of the 1928 football season.

CAPTAIN ZEHLE

Freshman Football Squad

THE 1928 SEASON

Coach Bailey, director of freshman football activities on the field of battle, was not supplied with a group of mighty Titans with which to conquer opposing forces. But a call for all freshmen who could carry a football resulted in a turnout of material which will no doubt offer candidates for regular berths on next year's varsity squad.

Captain Rashid led his pigskinners through a hectic career. They won games and lost games, but it was never said that they did not fight every second of all of them. Bruised, battered, but spirited, they emerged from the season's activities with high hopes for next year.

Coach Bailey built his team around Captain Rashid, Tracey and Gentile in the backfield, and Proctor and Wunschel in the line. With these men leading the way, lack of substitutes meant nothing to the fighting rats who were out to play football, and they played it until they dropped. Their unwavering courage in the face of great odds was a manifestation of that spirit which has been born into the New Rollins.

BASKET-BALL

Basket-Ball

Gaining the peak of form in the game with Stetson University February 3, the Tars evened scores with the Hatters of Coach McQuillan by administering them a crushing defeat, 29-19. It was the crowning victory of the season.

All in all the 1928 season was generally considered a great success. The entire varsity squad will return next year.

Freshman Basket-Ball

With a woeful lack of material from which to build a machine, the freshmen started out the basket-ball season with the same manifestation of spirit that characterized their football season. Some victories, but more defeats, marked their 1928 schedule.

When Coach Hill issued the call for freshmen basket-ball candidates, seven men answered the summons. Those seven men carried the season's burden of games upon their shoulders. Even as in football, they never knew when they were licked.

The freshman squad consisted of Proctor, Quill, Gough, Tracey, Rashid, Pease and R. James. During the latter part of the season, Proctor, suffering from an infection, was not able to help his teammates.

They were a "scrappy" bunch, those freshmen, despite their lack of numbers.

MINOR SPORTS

Crew

Crew was inaugurated this year in the program of Rollins athletics.

In 1927 Cornell University presented to Rollins two shells. It was a gift which, at the time, Rollins could not take advantage of. A council of ways and means was assembled in order to work out a way for financing a rowing program. The first problem was to get the shells to Florida. To accomplish this a Navy Night was declared, a gala evening of joyous festivity; and from this project sufficient funds were raised to transport the shells to the South.

The students having succeeded thus far, President Holt came to their aid, and the result was a coach and a boathouse. The coach was Charles Chase, former Yale coxswain, and the boathouse was erected upon the shore of Lake Maitland.

Thus began crew at Rollins College. Rollins is the only college in the state that enjoys this sport.

Two teams journeyed to Palm Beach in February, there putting on an exhibition race. No intercollegiate meets were scheduled for the 1928 season, Coach Chase desiring his crewmen to have more experience before contesting for outside honors.

Tennis

No apologies are necessary in describing the activities of the 1928 tennis team. The record of this season's tennis matches includes victories over Eustis, Clermont, Leesburg, Southern College and Stetson University. All matches were hard fought and were entertaining exhibitions of close, fast tennis. Both at home and abroad, the gratification of victory has been enhanced by the sportsmanlike spirit with which the matches were conducted.

Members of the team were Robert Proctor, George Holt, Elbert Winderweedle and Fred Barr. Proctor and Winderweedle composed the first doubles team, Holt and Barr the second.

Proctor, although a freshman, well deserves his position as number one man for he is the acknowledged champion of his fellow teammates. He has held the title of Junior Champion of North Carolina.

Winderweedle is the only man that Rollins will lose through graduation.

It is expected that with this year's experience behind them and with the addition of new talent next year the team for 1929 will be better than ever.

Swimming

Swimming is the sport for which Rollins has always been best fitted. Situated on the shore of Lake Virginia, having a swimming course pronounced as one of the best in Florida and on which the high schools of the state stage their Annual Aquatic Meet, facilities could not be better.

The 1927 season was marked by several meets. Among the teams against whom the Tars swam were Southern College (twice); Orlando High School and Winter Park High School (practice meets), and St. Petersburg High School, champions of the State (practice meet).

The first contest with Southern College resulted in a defeat for the Tars. Later in the season, however, the two teams again met, this time in neutral waters at Fort Myers, Florida. The result was a tie.

At the time that this book goes to press, results of the 1928 season are not available. However, with more and better material than last year with which to enter the field of competition, it is expected that the Rollins swimmers will achieve good results in their 1928 campaign.

Boxing

Coached by Ben Pound, idol of Florida fighting fans and promising contender for national heavyweight honors, boxing at Rollins has taken on a brilliant aspect.

No intercollegiate matches, however, were scheduled this year.

The record of Pound, who is also a student of Rollins, is almost a clean slate of victories since he first appeared in the ring.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

Women's Athletics

In the fall of 1927, the Rollins College Women's Athletic Association was organized for the purpose of promoting a spirit of co-operation and sportsmanship and a higher degree of physical efficiency among women. The organizers met many difficulties; however, W. A. A. has shown promise of becoming one of the largest and most enthusiastic organizations on the campus.

Membership required a C average in scholarship and 25 regulation points.

Regular training rules were encouraged and "R"'s awarded to worthy all-around girl athletes who met the required standard in sportsmanship, ability, practice and training.

Awards were: W. A. A. letters, 750 points; a chevron for letters, 1,500 points; sweater with "R", 2,250 points; desk figure or paper weight, 3,000 points; emblem, expert swimmer.

Among W. A. A. social activities was a Kid Party held in January. The party proved such a success that W. A. A. determined to make it an annual event.

Overnight trips became attractive in the wonderful lake country around Winter Park. The biggest affair, however, was the banquet held at the end of the year, when awards were presented and elections held.

Basket-Ball

Girls' basket-ball was revived this year after several seasons' absence. Basket-ball elicited considerable enthusiasm, although no intercollegiate games were scheduled. Class teams carried on the schedule of intra-mural games.

The freshmen had two strong teams, the sophomores one and the juniors, seniors and specials combined to make a sextette of power.

Occasional combats with the high school teams of Orlando and Winter Park added zest to the sport.

At the close of the season elimination games were played in order to determine the championship class team. Odd and even teams were picked. These teams were considered the Varsity Specials. They staged three battles, the championship going to the team winning two out of three of them. It was noteworthy that the enthusiasm stirred up by these contests extended even beyond the circle of the Women's Athletic Association.

Swimming

During the warmer months of fall and spring, swimming was a major activity of the association.

A clean dive off the dock, a sprint across the 220-yard course,—exciting moments, there were, in the season's program.

Meets were confined to inter-class affairs. For girls who loved swimming just to swim, not to race, were awarded regulation points. Many a time at night, or just before breakfast, Cloverleaf dock was loaded with those who were out "just for fun."

Many life-savers' emblems appeared on hitherto uninitiated suits during the course of the swimming season.

Rollins has been unusually fortunate in having a water course used for the Florida State Aquatic Meets. Fall, winter or spring, our weather allows us to enjoy the great sport.

Each year an expert-swimmer emblem is awarded to the best girl swimmer.

Hockey

Although hockey was started but last year, considerable progress has been made under the leadership of Miss Lucille Jackson, Director of Girls' Athletics. Odd and even teams were organized and captains urged their teams to "get in and fight!"

Elimination games determined the championship team for 1928. Next year's hockey games are being eagerly anticipated.

Canoeing

"Attention! Forward! Hip!" Thus began canoe practice for many mornings on the waters of Lake Virginia. It was part of the program of war canoeing, singles, doubles, titling and jostling, main sport features on the lake front.

Six o'clock practices were in vogue. Practice took the form of paddling, beaching, and all the other fine points essential to skillful canoeing, such as feathering one's paddle and mentally reducing the practice to an art. For in canoeing there is beauty.

When the final championship was won, medals were awarded to the crew members for faithfulness and loyalty to their crews and classes. Of course, points counted toward that coveted "R"!

Tennis

One of the outstanding girls' sports during the year was tennis.

During the first term a "ladder tournament" was played; the second term, four class tournaments: then Odd and Even tournaments, the winners of which received 100 regulation points.

Next year we hope to have a woman's college team.

Archery

Shades of Robin Hood and Maid Marian! What was that we saw on the campus? Surely that was the whizz of an arrow through the balmy Florida atmosphere. But no cause for alarm—unless you wandered too near the target. It was the archery division of the W. A. A.

Archery, one of the oldest sports in the world, has recently been revived at Rollins.

Two years ago it was practiced by only a few enthusiasts. Now, although the babe of W. A. A. activities, archery has become one of the most flourishing.

Volley-Ball

Volley-ball was one of the outstanding sports of the spring term. Class teams were formed and from these Odd and Even teams were chosen. Elimination contests determined the winning team.

Hiking

Girls who liked knickers, sweaters, and the great out-of-doors found a great deal of enjoyment when they joined the W. A. A. hikers this year. Supper-hikes, week-end hikes and before-breakfast hikes were taken. W. A. A. membership was not required for this sport, but W. A. A. credit was given.

There was a zest in being outdoors on some of our wonderful days, singing college songs as we tramped along, or thinking with relish of the meal ahead, especially of Miss Jackson's "bun on a twig," which all our budding campers learned to make on the Lake Sue hike.

Organizations

The Student Association is the organized student body. As expressed in the constitution, "the purpose of the Rollins College Student Association is to have an organization in which the authority of the student body of Rollins College shall be vested; which said authority shall be exercised for managing athletics and other student activities in which all students are concerned; to have charge of and control of, therefore; for promotion including competitions therefore; for promotion of good fellowship and enforcing law and order in the college . . ."

The Flamingo

The Flamingo, "a literary magazine of the youngest generation," was projected at Rollins in 1926-1927 under the editorship of Brenham McKay and a Board of Editors. Edwin Osgood Grover, formerly of Ginn & Co., later of Rand, McNally Co., and now Professor of Books at Rollins, loaned his invaluable experience to the launching of the magazine.

The Flamingo has gained a reputation throughout the United States for its literary merit.

DOROTHEA THOMAS

The Little Theater Workshop of Rollins College, gaining in talent, ability and popularity, has offered many fine entertainments to students of the college and to the people of Winter Park.

Dorothea Thomas, Director of the Department of Dramatics of the college and head of the Little Theater, developed many promising actors and actresses during the 1926-27 season.

Chief among those who made big accomplishments last year were pretty Miss Annabelle Walker, the charming heroine of "Op-O'-Me-Thumb," the play that won the highest award of the Little Theater in the month of February; the ever-dramatic Donald B. McKay, Jr., and the versatile Frank S. Abbott.

The Workshop, although handicapped by a lack of stage property, grew to such an extent that in 1927-28 it made its appearance with a seemingly brand new set of props.

This year's Student Association has not been without its troubles. With many new activities appearing on the student program, and each of them clamoring for a share in the budget, the association was hard put to it to satisfy all the clamorings. The fact that the demands were met, however, has been adequate proof of the wisdom displayed by the association in electing its officers.

With the growth of the Y. M. C. A. at Rollins, four points were formulated stating the purpose of the organization. These points were later accepted by Y. W. C. A.

They were:

1. To lead students to faith in God through Jesus Christ.
2. To lead them to membership in the Christian Church.
3. To promote their growth in Christian faith and character especially by the study of the Bible.
4. To influence them to devote themselves with all Christians to work the will of Christ on human society: and to extending the kingdom of God throughout the world.

Throughout the country The Flamingo has received a favorable reception. It has been unstintingly praised for its high literary merit as an undergraduate magazine; on several occasions people of eminent literary fame—authors, critics—have stated:

“It is the best ‘magazine of the youngest generation’ that is published to-day.”

With the growth of literary interest at Rollins, which took root with the establishment of the M. Flossie Hill Short Story Prize, The Flamingo could not help but play a prominent part.

Girls' Glee Club

Under the capable and artistic leadership of Edna Wallace Johnston, the Girls' Glee Club presented several varied and interesting programs during the 1928 season.

The first concert was given at the Mt. Dora Yacht Club, February 2. The second was presented February 16 at the Alabama Hotel in Winter Park. The club made two appearances during Founders' Week—one in chapel on February 18, the other during the Osceola pageant at the Brewer estate the afternoon of February 22. The last performance of the season was presented in the Titusville High School Auditorium, May 3.

The entire season was a success from all viewpoints. The ensemble work of the club was supplemented by Gretchen Cox, violinist; Evelyn Green, reader, and Elizabeth Atkisson, soprano soloist.

On April 8, 1927, "Une Petite Soiree Musicale et Litteraire," the first public French program to be presented by a Rollins group, was given by the society. On the program were soprano solos, poetry reading, and one-act plays.

On April 22, the Cercle was admitted to the Federation de L'Alliance Francaise aux Etats-Unis et au Canada, an international organization devoted to the furthering of French literature and ideals. The Rollins Cercle is the only collegiate group in Florida which is affiliated with the Federation.

During the year, the Cercle was visited by Baron Paul de'Estournelles de Constant.

Fraternities

Inter-Fraternity Council

Pledging among fraternities at Rollins has been of the cut-throat variety for several years. Such conditions were not at all desirable to any of the Greek letter fraternities on the campus. Perhaps it was the lazy Southern weather that caused this desire for peace. Or, perchance, Dr. Holt's belief in the League of Nations and his arguments for World Peace. Whatever it was that brought the coalition, in September, 1928, the several Greek letter fraternities came to mutual agreement and an Inter-fraternity council was born.

The Alumni Reunion

A grand and glorious get-together was the alumni meeting and luncheon held this year at the Seminole Hotel, February 18, when nearly two hundred former students gathered once more to renew old friendships.

The meeting opened with the invocation by Dr. Belk, '27, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Orlando, and was followed by speeches of welcome by Mrs. C. Fred Ward, '96, as from the city of Winter Park, and by Paul Hilliard, '28, as from the present student body. Messages came from the various Rollins organizations.

A message from Dr. Thomas R. Baker was followed with two solos by Serge Borowsky, Russian, baritone. Reports of the officers followed. Rex Beach, president of the Rollins Alumni Association, then gave a humorously serious talk about the future of Rollins College, the future of the Alumni Association, and the future of several other things.

The Annual Luncheon following the meeting was a howling success from beginning to end. The din of noise makers, the tangle of serpentine and confetti, the many-colored hats, the music of the orchestra and the hum of voices and laughter—all contributed to the scene of joyous festivity.

It was voted at the Annual Meeting to appoint a committee from the Alumni to begin planning at once for the Rollins Semi-Centennial celebration in 1934.

The Alumni Association, under the leadership of its president, Rex Beach, and executive secretary, A. J. Hanna, has never before been so strong as it is today, as was evidenced by the large number of former students who attended the reunion. The alumni voted to stand 100% back of President Holt in his program for the Alma Mater.

The "Alumni Record" made its 1928 debut in March. The staff hopes to publish it quarterly, giving all the news available about former students and activities on the Rollins campus. The purpose of the Record will be to keep the alumni in close touch with the activities of the college and with one another. The "Rollins Record," which goes out each month, supplements the "Alumni Record."

The Ride of the Thirty Cavaliers

Rose Mills Powers

FROM Hirrihighua to Apalache they had carved their terrible way,

And, black with burning and red with blood, the country behind them lay,

A hundred and fifty leagues or more from the pleasant southerly coast

Where Calderon at anchor lay in the bay of the Holy Ghost.

"I must choose me thirty good horsemen now," Hernando DeSoto said,

"Juan d'Anasco, no braver lives to ride at the column's head.

They must backward hie through smoke and blood where the corpses line the trail,

*To summon north as the curlew flies, the caravels'
welcome sail."*

Shriven of soul, with faces set, into that hell of fears,

Hoof to hoof and lance to lance, rode the Thirty Cavaliers.

SEVENTEEN leagues and the third day done, and another day seventeen,

And five leagues onward till dawns the sun over Ocala's sheen.

Ocala, the river where Bruto fell, DeSoto's beloved hound,

*Their eyes were moist as they marked the spot,
the lonely and sodless mound.*

"And were he a human instead o' brute, they never had loathed him more,"

Sighed Lopez, the page, "for he read their hearts, if hatred or peace they bore.

But this withal were a sorry place with Indian fiends to tryst.

Was that a whoop I heard but now over to windward—Hist!"

*Into the water they charged amain, as ever the
grim foe nears,*

Breast to breast and stroke to stroke swam the Thirty Cavaliers.

DAWN to sunset and twelve leagues done,
and the Great Swamp crossed at last,

In Asachile, a midnight scare as the galloping squadron passed,

And bare brown men who rage in vain as the
hoof beats die away,

“‘Twas a pretty trick,” d’Anasco mused, “but real work comes with day,

The river to cross and the Bloody Lake where the warriors died in shoals

When Vitachuco his promise broke—a curse on their paynim souls!”

But never a leaf or thicket stirred as they circled
the village round,

And silence lay like a ghostly pall on that fear-
some battle ground,

As, lance to lance and hoof to hoof, with straining eyes and ears,

Over the stark unburied dead rode the Thirty
Cavaliers.

*S*AFELY gaining the other bank, giving no quarter, down,

Lancing and charging they beat their way into Ocala town;

*But stiff and numb as a statue carved, galloped
the stripling page,*

Brave at heart as a veteran Don, but slender and under age;

The silent village gave forth no sound, never a footfall stirred,

*As four great fires in the square they built, quick
at the leader's word;*

Lopez to life is warmed again, his comrade-at-arms beside,

*Ready at midnight's swift alarm into the dark
to ride,*

Ready to meet the horrid hail of arrows and poisoned spears,

*Hoof to hoof and lance to lance, rode the Thirty
Cavaliers.*

SEVENTEEN leagues and the sixth day gone, and a rest for the horses spent,

The seventh, though lucky by churchly signs, yet that was the day they went,

*Sudden and swift as a flash, the first—sickened
and groaned—was dead:*

They marked his grave with a Christian cross and an Ave or two they said;

Black as ink lay the cypress swamp, the weather was bitter cold;

They halted at eve,—in the midnight hour over the other rolled,

The comrade-at-arms of him who died, rigid and stark he lay;

*“The plague,” they cried, on his glazing eyes,
and fled him—at dawn of day*

Two riderless horses took the lead, they followed in awe and tears;

Ghost and living, hoof to hoof, rode the Thirty Cavaliers.

*VIVID and trembling and gripped with fear,
day after day they rode,*

The riderless horses leading on, and safe was the way they showed;

Past Acuera and into the realm where friendly Mucozo dwelt,

They rode in a dream, those horsemen all, and each in his deep heart felt

The souls of their comrades leading on, guiding their horses still,

Bound to finish the ride withal, by the force of a ghostly will.

*Strangest of rides with never a sign of ambush
on any hand,*

*"I' faith, the heathen must scent," they said,
"that spirits are in command!"*

Strangest of rides through an alien land, where never a foeman peers,

Ghost and living, lance to lance, rode the Thirty Cavaliers.

TWELVE days done and the goal at hand,
a league away, no more,

When the jaded troopers took their stand at last on the pleasant shore.

The sunset watch is looking out at the Hirrihig-hua gate,

*When stern and mute, they gallop in with faces
grim as fate;*

*Two and two, with lance and shield, helmet erect,
and on,*

Leading the way, two riderless horses, to the quarters of Calderon.

"Juan d'Anasco," the camp gave cry, then silence—a hush of dread,

And they crossed themselves as they marked with tears how the riderless horses led.

So, lance to lance, and hoof to hoof, out of that hell of fears,

Ghost and living, they came at last—the Thirty Cavaliers.

*"Into the water
they charged a-main, as ever the
grim foe nears."*

WINTER PARK, FLORIDA

ROLLINS COLLEGE is situated in the high lake region of Florida near the geographical center of the state. The region is noted for its orange groves and healthful climate. Winter Park, with its beautiful shaded streets, its colonial architecture, and its cultured community life resembles an old New England village set down in the heart of Florida. There are twenty-one lakes lying wholly within the village limits, which provide all-the-year-round bathing, boating and fishing. The forty-acre college campus has more than a half mile frontage on Lake Virginia.

Winter Park is the home of a large literary colony which attracts many distinguished people to it during the winter.

Among the cultural opportunities open to Rollins students are the regular Tuesday Evening Lectures given throughout the winter free of charge by noted speakers; the monthly productions of the Little Theater Workshop of the Department of Drama of the college; the three concerts of the Winter Park Symphony orchestra (45 pieces), and at Orlando a season of Grand Opera. There are many individual lectures and brilliant concerts, in addition to the meetings of the Allied Arts Society, the Poetry Society of Florida, and other literary and art clubs.

Rollins is a member of the Southern Association of Colleges, and its credits are accepted by the leading colleges throughout the country.

A FRIEND

THE FLAMINGO

“A Literary Magazine of the Youngest Generation”

Arthur Sherburne Hardy, the distinguished novelist and poet, who was for some years editor of “The Cosmopolitan” under John Brisbane Walker, said of a recent number of THE FLAMINGO: “I approached The Flamingo with no great appetite—rather with that languid interest with which I take up any undergraduate publication. But The Flamingo interested me at once. The opening poem, ‘Heaven Shining Through,’ is excellent, and reminded one of Emily Dickinson. The story of the man who bought nine lots in a cemetery and erected nine monuments to Myra, the saleslady, is a corker!”

EPILOGUE

This has been a difficult book to produce. All books are, but especially one after the nature of a history book; because, if an account is right, it is right, but if it is wrong, it is an abomination. And there you have it.

A history may be likened to a mirror. If you turn the mirror a little this way or that, the reflected outlines alter. The picture changes. Perhaps that which was a distinct outline becomes a faint tracery, or that line which was indistinct becomes definite. What was dark becomes glittering bright, and vice versa. It all depends upon the viewpoint—and a turning of the mirror. No two persons' viewpoints are exactly alike. No one knows what picture the next turning of the mirror will reveal. If one did know, precious little difference it would make, because the picture would go on changing. It's a fateful business, this life, which goes on and on, changeless and ever-changing even within college walls. Its aspects present countless sides, and everybody's mirror reflects a different side, even the editor's mirror.

That is why it is so difficult to produce a satisfying book.
